MARION'S LYCEUM COURSE

This Season's Program Includes
Six High Class Attractions
First One Oct 5th

The opening number of these great attractions will be Schildkret's Hungarian orchestra on next Thursday evening, Oct. 5th.

The lovers of good, high class entertainment have a feast of enjoyment before them in the most excellent Lyceum course arranged for them for the coming season. There are to be six big numbers of absolutely guaranteed attractions, three musical companies, two lecturers and one interpreter of plays. It will be the best you ever brought to Marion. We have had some high-class attractions in past seasons, but never before a course composed entirely of high class talent.

The first number will be Schildkret's Hungarian orchestra, one of the most popular musical companies in America and abroad and is in great demand on the Chautauqua circuits or Lyceum courses. It will be in Marion, Thursday, Oct. 5th. Don't miss the opening number.

The next attraction, Albert Edward Wiggam, is one of the great lecturers. He is described by our well known Edward Amherst Ott as a "great master orator," another well known lecturer, Monteville Flowers says of him, "Few men are doing truly great, lasting work on the platform. Wiggam is one of them." You can't afford to miss his great message. He will be here Monday, Oct. 30th.

We wish you might read all the good things said about the artistic work of Miss Gay Zenola McLaren, reader and reciter of famous plays, who will furnish the third of our entertainments. This is what Ella Wheeler Wilcox says of her, "I consider Miss McLaren one of the marvels of the age. She possesses unique genius combined with womanly beauty. It is a delight to see and hear her. A New England newspaper, Springfield, (Mass.) Republican makes this comment on her work, "Her rendering of an entire play is nothing short of wonderful." These two comments are characteristic of hundreds of others. Don't you think she will be worth hearing? Come to see her Tuesday evening, Dec. 12th.

The Weber Male Quartet will furnish us a great entertainment on Wednesday, January 17, 1917. Perhaps the Weber Quartet is the most popular form of Lyceum entertainment, and this Quartet is recommended to be better by far than any other that has appeared in Marion. It is composed of well known concert and Church soloists of New York city. This is a quartet of musicians each of whom is able alone to give a whole evening's program. If you have a phonograph you have no doubt heard some of the records made by this quartet, for it sings for some of the big phonograph companies. Don't miss them.

An unusual and unique program will be given by the Florentine musicians on Wednesday, March 21. It is not possible to give you an adequate idea of the work of this excellent company, but we can say of it that it has been scoring success after success throughout this country. This company is composed of three ladies and one gentleman. A most interesting and entertaining feature of its program is the playing of the concert accordion by Mr. Andrew Vissochi, who is considered the world's leading exponent of this instrument. Come to hear him.

Chancellor Geo. H. Bradford's lecture will close the course. We may expect a great inspirational message. He is a highly educated man having been Chancellor of Epworth University of Oklahoma City. His great theme is the problem of better education, a theme which is on the heart of every serious minded person. His lecture will be a most appropriate ending of a series of great programs. Meet him on Friday evening March 23.

All the programs will be in the School Auditorium and will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Season tickets are now on sale prices: adult, $2.00 school $1.25. Think how cheap! See one of the girls of the Senior class. These girls are working hard to make the course a financial success. Won't you cooperate with them in every way you can? If there is any surplus it goes to help pay for the equipment we have been buying for the school.

NEW FIRM

I have purchased the Carnahan Bros. & Dodge stock of merchandise and will continue the business at the old stand. I purchased this stock at a bargain and will offer the people of Crittenden county some real bargains. Mr. Frank Dodge will be with me and he will be glad for his old friends and customers to call on him when intown.

Come in and see my goods and get my prices before making your purchases, as I can save you money and give you high grade merchandise.

NEWT THOMAS BADLY HURT

When He Falls From Wagon Which Passes Over His Body Breaking Some Bones

Newton Thomas fell off of a wagon Wednesday Sept. 20th., and broke his collar bone, 2 ribs, 1 arm and otherwise bruised himself up. He was hauling a lot of lumber from Piney Fork for James A. Pickens who lives near Tribune on the Flynn's Ferry road and fell off of the wagon in descending a hill and the wagon run over him. It was a miracle that he was not hurt worse than he was but if no complications arise his physician says he will recover.

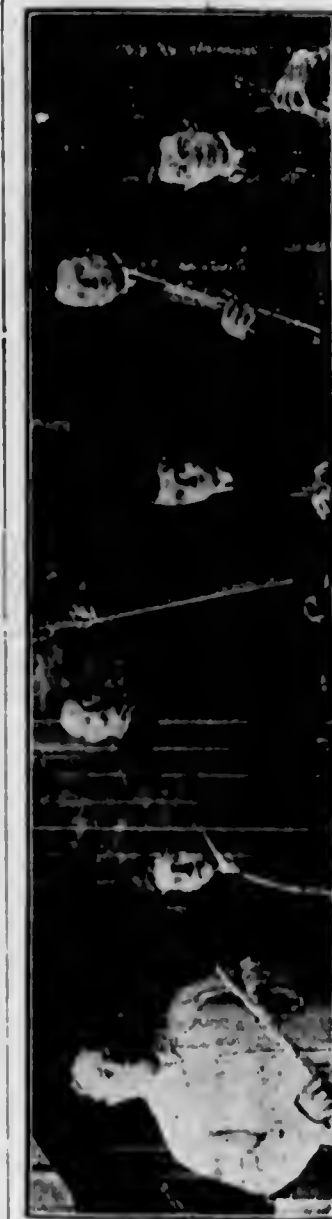

Good! For Golconda.

A few days ago bids were opened at Golconda, Ill., for the erection of a $28,000 School Building. Contractors from different sections of the country and representatives of manufacturers of lumber and mill work from several mills located in different sections of the country were present to bid on the work.

SCHILDKRET'S HUNGARIAN ORCHESTRA.
For ten years the Schildkret Hungarian Orchestra has appeared on Lyceum courses and Chautauqua circuits, and it has been stated repeatedly that Samuel Schildkret, the leader, can get as much music out of his six men as many directors can draw from an orchestra of ten or twelve. He is proud of the fact that he gives an audience about five times its money's worth. Ordinarily the leader of a band or orchestra has a notion that it is best to take things calmly, with plenty of time for intermissions. Not so with Schildkret. There are no so called "breathing spells" when Schildkret leads the band. He and his men are busy every minute.

It is a fact that the Schildkret Orchestra has on frequent occasions while playing a selection on the regular program caused such enthusiasm that eight or ten encores have been demanded and given. It is stated on good authority that the Schildkret Orchestra has in its repertoire enough selections to last from the first curtain in the evening until breakfast the next morning. It is not unusual for this organization to play forty selections during an evening's entertainment.

The program used by the Schildkret Orchestra is made up of both classical and popular pieces. Regardless of whether an audience is distinctly musical or not Schildkret is sure to please.

Naturally Director Schildkret's playing of the piccolo and flute is a big drawing card. Also he greatly interests his audience in his unique announcements and comments.

The symphonies, the national instrument of Hungary, is introduced by the Schildkret Orchestra.

Bids Wanted For Concrete Walk

On Tuesday Oct. 10th, 1916 I will let the contract to the lowest and best bidder for putting down a concrete walk in front of Wes Eaton's property on North Main Street. G. E. Boston for street commissioners City of Marion, Sept. 25th, 1916.

PARENT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

Promises To Be a Live Working Factor For The School This Year.

As had been announced, the Marion Parent Teachers Association met in the School Auditorium last Friday evening at 8 o'clock and was called to order by Pres. Jno. W. Blue.

The first thirty minutes of the program was given to an entertainment program, consisting of the following numbers.

Piano duet, Misses Elizabeth Cook and Florine Harrod.

Reading, Miss Gladys Hardy with piano accompaniment by Miss Lucile Pope.

Reading, Miss Wilma Wright, quartet Misses Gussie Burgett and Eva Yates and Messrs L. E. Guess and Jas. Homer Moore.

The entertainment program was entertaining and splendidly rendered. This part of the program alone will be well worth the efforts you may have to make to come to any of our Parent Teachers Associations. The entertainment program is always a pleasing feature of the meetings.

After a few introductory remarks by the President the Association Program on the subject of "Why Marion should have a live Parent Teachers Association," was begun. Interesting and pointed discussions were made on sub topics of the main head by Prof. Christian, Mrs. F. W. Nunn, Rev. Chandler,

Mr. Franklin, Miss Margaret Moore, Miss Sue Moore and Miss McGee. The gist of the discussions could be given by saying that Marion needs a Parent Teachers Association and that it may be and will become an important factor for more efficient school work.

The Association was then reorganized for the year with the following officers, Jno. W. Blue, Pres. Mrs. F. W. Nunn, Vice Pres. Hollis C. Franklin, Sec'y., Learner E. Guess, Treas.

The following committee on a plan of work for the year was appointed by the President; Rev. Chandler, Chairman, A. C. Moore and V. L. Christian.

The next meeting will be held on Oct. 20, 1916 and all parents and interested supporters off the school are urged to be present.

Until you serve it, you will never know how much pleasure coffee can give

A million other women have learned what good coffee means—they have solved this question in their homes for all time.

They know now that to get good coffee, the coffee itself must be right.

There are hundreds of varieties of coffee grown. The coffee itself must be put up by men who know coffee. Arbuckles' Coffee is. It is put up by Arbuckle Bros., the greatest coffee merchants in the world. There is more of it sold than any other coffee—that is why they can afford to give you the biggest value for your money.

And no matter how good coffee itself is, if it isn't well taken care of, it makes a poor drink. Arbuckles' Coffee is put up in sealed, dust-proof packages, carefully wrapped to protect it from moisture, dirt and store odors. It arrives in your kitchen with all its original strength and flavor.

Have in your home the enjoyment of drinking the coffee which, of all the coffees in America, is the most popular! Solve your coffee problem in the identical way a million other women have. Serve Arbuckles' Coffee tomorrow—know how much pleasure coffee can give.

A Deciding Question.

Let every farmer, every other business man, ask himself this question:

"Where now is the seat of financial authority in the United States located; in Wall Street in the offices of the magnates of high finance, or in Washington in the National Government?"

Also—Where does he want it located?

"A Certain Man" and "A Certain Samaritan"

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.

It appears that the Lord Jesus was not so much concerned in answering questions as in answering the state of mind that produced them. In the story of the good Samaritan it is certainly so.

The lawyer's question: "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" reveals the legitimacy of his mind. He has no doubt about his ability to do something to make him worthy of eternal life, but he has

How come to the light, and in his light he shall see light. Eternal life is God's free gift and no man inherits it by doing, but by being "born from above."

The Lord meets the lawyer on his own ground when he demands: "What is written in the law? how readest thou?" And he answered: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." And Jesus said unto him: "Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live."

Does the gospel preacher contradict the Lord when he speaks of eternal life as the free gift of God for all who will receive it? Not in the least! Ideally, there is a way of salvation that is not of grace, for Moses said of the law, "The man that doeth these things shall live by them." But who has ever done them? The most devoted heart on earth does not love God supremely nor its neighbor as itself and this righteous requirement of the law is the condemnation of all mankind. Why, then, did the Lord answer the lawyer so? He was using the law for the purpose for which it was given: "For by the law is the knowledge of sin." (Rom. 3:20).

Purpose and Failure of Law.
That the law has had its designed effect is revealed in his next question: "But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, 'And who is my neighbor?'" No one had accused him. Why did he seek to justify himself? The law has done its work: In its holy light his conscience is accusing him. There he stands, revealed by the law in the presence of the Saviour, who will now tell him who man's neighbor is. He joys to tell it: It is himself, the Saviour, the only being in the universe who loves his neighbor as himself!

"A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho." In the first five words of the parable the Lord reveals man's downward course: man will tell you he is going up, the Lord says "down." The last four words of the sentence completes the picture of human depravity—"from Jerusalem to Jericho." From Jerusalem, the holy city, to Jericho, the city of the curse! What a picture! Man has turned away from the light and is walking in his own shadow to destruction.

But lost man is not without hope! Along this dangerous road many a traveler is seized with the conviction of sin: "And he fell among thieves which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead." What a picture of the helpless misery to which sin has reduced every man.

"By chance there came down a certain priest that way . . . likewise a Levite" the parable continues. No help for him from either of them, divinely appointed ministers of blessing though they were! Their service has to do with the temple, and the traveler has turned away from the temple. They represent the law, which is good if one can keep it, but cannot help the helpless. The priest and the Levite are more chance passersby, not heaven-sent messengers to dying men.

Salvation Through Riches of Grace.
"But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed . . ." He was journeying; out of the father's bosom came he who alone can help us— . . . came where he was, and when he saw him he had compassion, and went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him. . . . It is a truth that "the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans" but this Samaritan will have dealings dealing with this Jew. "When we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his son." A helpless enemy, yet had he compassion and met all my desperate need without question or condition. Observe the manner of his dealings: "pouring in oil and wine." His grace is measureless, and all he does for the sinner is after this pattern.

The narrative closes with the command: "Go, and do thou likewise." Your ministry to men of misery: nothing with the mere relief of misery: nothing meets his mind short of bringing men into the new creation.

And Still They Come.

That Wilson's clear-headedness courage and progressive tendencies would attract the independent minds of the country to his standard has been confidently expected. Now as the issues between the two presidential candidates, the men and the things they stand for, are being discussed and made clear the lining up begins. Besides the large number of progressive and independent leaders already in the Wilson ranks, in the last two weeks the following significant things have come to pass:

Thomas A. Edison comes out in a strong interview approving Wilson's courage, wisdom and course of action and announces his support of him.

Roger Babson, Boston's famous statistician and financial expert, a life long Republican, comes over to Wilson. He is won to Wilson by Wilson's high expectations and course in dealing with great national and international problems.

Luther Burbank, the world's most distinguished scientist, plant life and development, publicly announces his support of Wilson, as "The greatest President America has ever had."

Mrs. Ida M. Tarbell, one of the foremost leaders of thought in America, whose name is on the Standard Oil Company, was nothing less than "speechless" in effect, announcing her entire support of Wilson. She said:

A NEW SKIN.

Snakes throw off their outer skin once a year. Human beings change their skin perhaps nine times in a year, that is, they have a new skin about every six weeks.

The value of a clean skin in maintaining health is not properly understood by the majority of people. Cleanliness is a part of health. You cannot be healthy unless you are clean not only externally, but also internally.

The blood should also be assisted occasionally, like the skin, in throwing off poisons so that the system may not get clogged and leave a weak spot for disease germs to enter the system. When the blood is clogged, we suffer from what is commonly called a skin rash.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and cures all skin diseases that breed and feed disease. It is best for scurvy, eczema, pimples and other eruptions that mar and mar the skin. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience is essentially the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it restores the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Take it as directed and it will search out and remove poisons from the stomach, liver, bowels, and kidneys and drive it from the system through the natural channels.

RIGHT HERE IN KENTUCKY.

Louisville, Ky. "For all of ten years I have depended on Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. My husband and I both use them. They are the best remedy for indigestion and constipation. I am a practical nurse and I know what I say. I gladly recommend them."—Miss A. CRAWFORD, 2105 Bank St.

Constipation causes and seriously aggravates many diseases. Then regulate stomach, liver and bowels by taking Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

"He is the first real progressive leader this decade has produced."

Mrs. Ella Elger Young, Superintendent of Chicago's school for years, announces her support of Wilson and is actively at work for his re-election.

Mr. Anoinette Funk of Illinois, one of the most distinguished suffragettes in the nation, and a leading Progressive, announces that she will report Wilson, "Because I am a Progressive," and because Wilson's record on the suffrage question is better than Hughes.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican, by many believed to be the most influential paper in the United States, a paper that during its existence of nearly a century has held an unwavering course of conscientious devotion to the right as it saw the right, arrays itself in the Wilson ranks.

The rejection by the National American Woman Suffrage Convention at Atlantic City of Mrs. Raymond Robin's resolution in favor of Hughes, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the venerable pioneer leader, helping in its defeat.

Over two thousand of the working women of Chicago have formed the "Wilson Working Women's League," to work for the re-election of Wilson, because "He places human values above property values, the common people on a par with 'Big Business.'"

Chronic Catarrh is Curable

Nothing is more distressing to the sufferer and his friends. Chronic catarrh is systemic—that is, it is present throughout the body, though it may manifest itself in a local irritation. Only a constitutional treatment will overcome systemic catarrh. Local treatments sometimes help the acute manifestations, but they cannot overcome the systemic disorder.

PERUNA Has Helped Thousands

It is a foe to catarrh. The voluntary testimony of thousands establishes this. Peruna benefits in a number of ways. Peruna builds up the digestion, restores the strength, and helps get the system in condition.

Peruna has special value in catarrh. It gives vitality to the system, restores tone to the membranes and enables them to perform their functions. In many cases the benefits begin at once, and it rarely fails when treatment is continued properly. The Peruna Medical Department will be glad to assist you to overcome this disease. The doctor's advice is free. Don't delay treatment.

A Letter From

Washington, D. C.

Dear Editor:

I have in the past told your readers about the magnificent and costly buildings of Washington, and as I have just been to New York, I want to tell them something about this, the greatest city of America and the second in population in the world, and it is now claimed by some writers that in ten years it will pass London in population. This I believe is correct as New York is growing faster than any city in the world, and the war in the East will will check London's growth and increase New York's. New York is a great city in different ways. I have been in Mexico and seen the Mexicans driving a gang of burros loaded with whatever they had for sale, bringing it from thirty, forty or fifty miles inland across the desert. I have seen the great wheat raisers of the Northwest harvesting their wheat off of their thousands of acres of fertile soil, then watch a congested city with her five million souls is quite a contrast. It makes me stop and wonder if this natural grouping of the people where I believe is correct as New York is growing faster than any city in the world, and the war in the East will of these questions to be found in the grand old geographic comparison. But when we begin comparisons we must take the individual facts up in order.

These facts of almost every conceivable variety. They range in importance from a humble shepherd's stone corral on a mountain slope to a thick congested city.

The why of man's distribution over the earth is one of the most complicated problems in natural science, and the solution of it is the chief problem of the modern geographer. In analyzing the facts of distribution we shall do well to begin with the causes and effects of migration. Primitive man is in no small degree a wanderer. His small resources often require him to explore new and larger fields. As population increases the food quest becomes more intense, it takes five times as much food to supply New York now as it did when it had only one million population.

As I looked up those tall buildings and watched children twenty to thirty stories high looking through iron bars that were fixed over the windows to keep them from falling out, children from five to ten years old that had never had their feet down on mother earth I wondered where their freedom began.

Now if the readers will follow me, I will, as brief as possible, give you a short sketch of the most costly buildings I visited. New York has more high and costly buildings of any city in the world. Some years ago when I stood on the twenty-two story Masonic building in Chicago I thought I was up in the air, but you will realize it was not so high compared with some of the buildings in New York. Now we will see but little of the city as we go in, as we go under the city until we get to the Pennsylvania station, there we will go up on an elevator to the street floor. The Pennsylvania depot is a very fine station, it cost one hundred million dollars. The Grand Central depot at New York is the finest and most costly depot in the world. The first ride I took was over the elevated railway; this elevated road is so high it requires elevators at the stations; it is up to the fifth story of some of the buildings. I got on at 34th street went ten miles then circled back about eighteen or twenty miles to the ocean, here I got off to take a vessel to see the fine bridges. I will now give you the cost of some of the bridges; we will first look at the Williamsburg bridge over East river between New York and Brooklyn, it cost ten million dollars, then we will look at Manhattan bridge, it is a double-deck suspension bridge and cost thirteen million dollars; the next in cost is the Hell Gate bridge, this, we were told, was the longest steel arch bridge in the world and cost fourteen million dollars; we will now visit the great Blackwell Island bridge, now in comparison this bridge cost twenty-five million dollars, the total cost of our capital and grounds, here in Washington, just cost twenty-nine million dollars. We will now visit the world's greatest achievement in bridge construction, the great Brooklyn bridge; this is the finest and costliest bridge in the world; five hundred thousand people and five thousand vehicles cross this bridge daily.

After seeing the great sea vessels and viewing the many sights on the ocean, I returned to the city and went through the great subway. This is an interesting trip, and after riding perhaps twenty miles, I got off, and came back up to the surface and took a street car to visit Chinatown, Wall street and many other important places including Manhattan Island. Now I wish to say something about Manhattan Island; it has nineteen square miles. In 1616 this island was purchased from the Indians for twenty-four dollars, the land is now worth four billion dollars the realty value improvements are six billion and seventy-five million dollars; the population is two million, three hundred and twenty-two thousand. On part of this island the land is worth six hundred dollars per square foot, and the office space rents as high as forty dollars per square foot. Just think, 300 years ago all this territory was occupied by a few Indian tents. You will remember that Manhattan is the most important of New York's five boroughs via Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond.

We will now visit some of the largest, tallest and costliest buildings in the world. First I will mention the finest church, the cathedral of St. John's Divine, the center spire is 435 feet high. They have paid out three million, five hundred thousand dollars, now, and I was told it would cost two million more to complete it. Trinity church has a set of bronze doors that cost forty thousand dollars, the marble altar cost one million dollars, the Aster family presented it.

We will now visit the McAlpin hotel, this is the largest hotel in the world. It has eleven hundred bathrooms; eighteen hundred telephones, and covers an entire block, is 25 stories high and cost thirteen million dollars. The Plaza hotel cost twelve million dollars. The St. Luke's hospital cost three million five hundred thousand dollars; The City college cost $4,000,000.00.

furnishes free tuition at a cost of $65,000.00 per year to the city. The general postoffice cost $6,200,000.00; The U. S. custom house cost $7,200,000.00; The New York library cost $3,000,000.00; Columbia University cost $13,500,000.00; The American museum of natural history cost $20,000,000.00, and its collections are worth $10,000,000.00.

We have all read so much about Madison Square garden, we will now visit it; it is the largest amphitheatre in America and cost over $3,000,000.00; now we will visit "The Ghetto," commonly called "Judea," this is the most congested mass of humanity in America and perhaps in the world. The streets are narrow and the buildings are tall. I was told that 250,000 souls live in one square mile of this territory, think of it.

I have been in the U. S. Treasury so often here in Washington, I will now visit the U. S. Sub-Treasury in Wall street, and I was told that the vaults in this building sometimes contained as much as $225,000,000.00 in coin. While here I was told that Wall street derived its name from the wall built in 1653 by Peter Stuyvesant for defense of New Amsterdam.

Now we will take a look at the Metropolitan museum of art. It cost $20,000,000.00 and under the presidency of J. Pierpont Morgan it has become one of the richest museums in the world. We will now visit the Sky-scraper, this wonderful city has more tall buildings than any other city on the globe. I will mention about eight, all ranging from 32 to 55 stories high. First is the Whitehall building, it is 32 stories—416 feet high; this is the largest single office building in the world; the next is the Singer building, it is 47 stories—612 feet high and has and has five thousand tenants; the next is the City Investment building, it is 34 stories—456 feet high and has six thousand tenants, think of it, three times as many tenants as Marion has population, and it cost ten million dollars; the next is the Municipal building, it is 34 stories—580 feet high, and cost $13,000,000.00; the Metropolitan Life Insurance building is 52 stories—700 feet high; Equitable building is 38 stories—528 feet high, and cost $29,000,000.00, and this is the costliest building in the world; the Woolworth building is 23 stories—759 feet high, and cost $15,000,000.00, and it is the tallest building in the world and its foundation is 130 feet in the ground.

DADDY'S EVENING MARY TALE

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GNOMES' CIRCUS.

The Children had been to a Circus that afternoon, and when Daddy came in the Nursery to tell them the usual Evening Story, they were very eager to know if a Circus was given often in Fairyland.

"Dear me, yes," said Daddy. "All the Fairies, Elves, Brownies, Gnomes and many of the Animals love a Circus almost better than anything else. And it was only yesterday that the Gnomes got up one of the best Circuses ever given."

"You see," said Peter Gnome, the reason some of those Animals and Fairies are going to say our Circus was the best they'd ever seen, is because I've got a scheme.

Now gather round me, Gnomes, while I whisper it to you:

"All the little Gnomes sat on stools and on the ground and on big rocks—anywhere so they could be near Peter and hear his idea."

"Yes," Peter continued, "the reason this Circus will be so wonderful is because we'll do all the work and not show off." Some of the little Gnomes looked a trifle sad at this, especially the four Gnome brothers, who always loved to do a bicycle act. But then Peter went on to explain that they would have plenty of chances to show off at many another circus. And pretty soon the Gnomes began to understand that they must have the work to do in order to make their guests enjoy themselves.

"So Peter Gnome went around the countryside getting together his performers, and soon came the day for the big event. All the Fairies, Elves, Brownies, Rabbits, Squirrels, and even the Meadow Mice and the Moles were invited to the Circus. And the Grasshoppers, Lizards, Snails and Butterflies were invited, too. Several families of Birds were given box seats in the best tree near where the Gnomes held their Circus."

"The performers had practiced their tricks again and again so they were in the form when the Circus began. First of all, there was the parade, and the Gnomes played the band. Peter Gnome had a big stick which he threw up in the air as the band was playing, and did many funny things which made the audience laugh."

"And then the Gnomes who were not in the band set to work. They pulled up the ropes and the swings, and got everything ready for the performers as they came out, and so everybody did their work that there was not a moment when some fine act was not being performed."

"The Butterflies gave a Butterfly dance which was very beautiful and Mr. Sun threw on his wonderful spotlight for that act. The Rabbits raced and jumped, and drove the chariots drawn by the Meadow Mice, over which there was great excitement. The Grasshoppers rode on the backs of the Moles, and jumped through hoops made of meadow weeds."

"And all the time the Gnomes rushed about fixing up things so that no time would be wasted, and in between times they went around as clowns, making funny speeches and getting all the Animals and Fairies to laugh until they nearly cried! The tears did trickle down the faces of the Squirrels, for they love fun and enjoy good jokes."

"A number of the Gnomes had been chosen to pass around pink lemonade."

And all of a sudden, one of the Gnomes shouted:

"Why, there come the Snails. We'd forgotten about them in our excitement over the Circus."

"Well, aren't the Snails, we're right on time, aren't we?"

"Every creature laughed hard at that, but the Gnomes who were passing the good things to eat and drink and munch, said: 'Just in time for the last round of our Circus food.'"

"Well, that's time enough," said the snails. And they managed to keep awake during the last two acts of the Gnomes' marvelous Circus."

Was Full of Holes.

"Harold," said the father of a precocious five-year-old at the supper table, "don't you think that is a pretty big piece of cake for a boy of your size?"

"Well, I suppose it looks big, papa," replied the little fellow, "but it's sponge cake and nearly all holes."

Loyd's Brain Leaks.

Uncle Billie Loyd said to uncle George Stallions: "Give the devil his dues."

"And if you do there's the devil to pay," returned uncle George, for he knows.

Jim Freeman says, No man ever went hme with a black eye because he let the other man do all the talking.

Albert Boaz says, Every now and then you see a widow who acts as if she was too bashful to walk on the same side of the street with a man.

Albert Elder says, No married man can brag that he has ever made a mistake, even if he did get the right woman he often has to hook her gown up the back.

A lady called in the Record-Press office the other day and said: "Are you the editor of the paper?"

"I am," replied Marshall Jenkins, with his pencil in his hand. "Well, I called to ask you if you would get larger type. My name was in your paper five times last week and my neighbor told me she never saw it."

A man walked into Billie Cox's grocery and handed him a paper containing some white powders. "I say," he said, "what do you think that is. Just taste it and tell me your opinion."

Billie smelt it and then touched it with his tongue.

"Well, I should say that was soda."

"That's just what I said," was the triumphant reply "but my wife said it was rat poison. Will you try it again to make sure?"

Our school teacher who had been telling a class of small pupils the story of the discovery of America by Columbus ended it with "And all this happened more than 400 years ago. Kenneth Loyd, with his eyes wide open with wonder, said, after a moment's thought, "Oh, my, what a memory you've got."

Mrs. Mayme Patton said to Mrs. Derroh: "Everybody says my daughter, Florence, got her beauty from me, what do you think of that?"

"Well, I think it was very unkind of her to take it from you."

"A man has to be a good fighter to face men and put them to sleep," said John Travis.

"Not necessarily," said Dan Patton. "He can be a poor preacher and do that."

Albert Elder says, The trouble about being a liar is that you can't always remember just what you said yesterday.

Bob Robinson says, A lazy man is never too lazy to deny it.

Bob Moore says, It isn't always a man's principles that make him behave: It is usually the police.

NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

ever receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong. No alcohol.

Everybody Come

Morgan O. Hughes, State organizer will speak at Salem, Ky. Thursday Sept. 28th at 1 o'clock. In the interest of the Livingston County Development Assn. Mr. Byrd, Crittenden County agent will make a talk the same day. G. N. McGrew, Pres. Henry Perkins, Secy.

Association Day at Oakland, Sept. 22nd.

Teachers' Association of Educational Division No. 3, was held at Oakland, Friday, Sept. 22nd. This was a day of success and was enjoyed by all who were present.

On account of the absence of Prof. McDowell, Prof. Christian led in the devotional exercises. Welcome address was given by Prof. W. K. Powell; Response by Supt. E. J. Travis.

Some inspiring talks were made by our enthusiastic teachers.

At 12:30 a delicious dinner was served. We especially thank the teachers and patrons for that good dinner.

At 1:30, song, Oakland school. Devotions by Kenneth Powell and Ernest Threlkeld. Allen Foster well entertained the crowd for a few minutes by imitating the "Backwoods" boy.

Some more good talks were made by our teachers. All the talks were followed by discussions. Among the last talks that were made, were interesting consolidation speeches by Supt. E. J. Travis, Profs. V. L. Christian, F. H. Hillyard and W. K. Powell.

We teachers of Division No. 3, are progressing nicely with our schools and are proud of the success of our association. We heartily indorse the good consolidation talks, and hope that old Crittenden may be prosperous and come to the front enough to afford consolidated schools by the years 1917-18.

ENGINEERS SHOW SOUTH'S CLAIMS

Remarkable Map Prepared by Muscle Shoals Committee Proves Merits.

Designing it primarily to prove the advantages of Muscle Shoals, on the Tennessee river, for the location of the government nitrate plant, the nitrate plant committee of the Nashville section of the Engineering Association of the South has completed a unique map that is expected to be of interest to engineers and business men throughout the country. By an ingenious system, it shows the natural resources of the country in every line in which engineers are likely to be interested, and presents an easy means of obtaining information along these lines that ordinarily require considerable investigation.

The map is to be part of a booklet being prepared by the engineers for the Muscle Shoals association, which will explain to the government officials and to scientists throughout the country what the claims of Muscle Shoals are. This is intended to be a concise, yet complete, presentation of the facts regarding this power site and the region around it. In this way it will prove a valuable advertisement for the entire south, as a showing of its resources to the men who will be most likely to aid in their development.

John Howe Peyton, president of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway, is chairman of this committee, and Hunter McDonald, ex-president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, is vice-chairman. W. G. Waldo of Vanderbilt university is executive secretary and is in active charge of the work of preparing the brief.

The map includes a line paralleling the borders of the country, showing the region in which according to the war college, plant, which is intended to be used in time of war in making ammunition from nitrates, its primary product, may be located with safety.

It also shows the leading developed water-power sites of the country, according to the records of the conservation congress. It is interesting to note that Muscle Shoals, which has a primary potential power of 120,000 horsepower, and a ten-months secondary power of 680,000 horsepower, is the only large site coming within the region of security, with the exception of one that is already developed to its limit at a high price and is lacking in the materials with which Muscle Shoals is surrounded. These places are indicated with the amount of power each can develop.

Productive mineral areas of many kinds are also presented, with graphic representations of the amount of production, according to government statistics and equally authentic sources, and the rank of each district. It is thus seen that Muscle Shoals is in the center of a region containing all the minerals needed for the purposes of the plant, and that these districts are among the largest producers in the country. This presentation is helping out by descriptions at the bottom of the map. The whole work will be a valuable record for the large number of scientists and manufacturers who are interested in natural resources.

Engineers throughout the south are becoming interested in the Muscle Shoals project, and many inquiries are being received by the engineers' committee for information. It is expected the brief will go before the government officials with the indorsement of every engineer in the south.

SEVEN SPRINGS

Rev. Gus Marshall, of Kuttawa, preached at Seven Springs Saturday night and Sunday. Brother Marshall used for a text in Sunday, Romans 12:11. He delivered a fine sermon admonishing the Christians to live godly, humble lives and let their christian experience be as a light to others to lead them to a higher and better life and glory. God in the end. The people here appreciated Bro. Marshall's service and gladly welcome him in our midst.

Ed Perkins and Shelly Matthews, of Frances, were in this vicinity last week.

Edgy Brasher, of Caldwell Springs, accompanied by B. A. Patton and children spent Sunday here.

Tobacco about all in the house in this vicinity.

Pity The Selfish Person.

Selfishness is a set back to many useful men and women. The country would be a wonderful country if our people were not so selfish.

Remove selfishness from a man and he at once becomes a good and useful citizen, but as long as he is so selfish he can't let the almighty dollar get out of his mind and it controls his every act. Pity the selfish person. —Messenger.

Biggest Output For Years

The Bascom Mines delivered five thousand tons of spar to the barges during the first fifteen days of the present month, being the greatest output in all its mining history as covering the past 80 years or nearly a century, and this too with almost a crew of raw hands many of whom were unaccustomed to mining. —Sentinel.

Pity The Selfish Person.

Selfishness is a set back to many useful men and women. The country would be a wonderful country if our people were not so selfish.

Remove selfishness from a man and he at once becomes a good and useful citizen, but as long as he is so selfish he can't let the almighty dollar get out of his mind and it controls his every act. Pity the selfish person. — Messenger.

Biggest Output For Years

The Nashville News delivered five thousand tons of spar to the barges during the first fifteen days of the present month, being the greatest output in all its mining history as covering the past 56 years or nearly a century, and this too with almost a crew of raw hands many of whom were unaccustomed to mining. — Sen-tinel.

The Poor Railroad!

Two accidents have caused suits to be brought against the L. C. railroad company for $140,000 and since a man got knocked off the track near Gilbertsville we understand he will bring suits against the same road for $2,500,000, and if the amount is not paid he proposes to take charge of the road from Grand Rivers to Boaz.

His right arm got a painful bruise, but he claims nothing less than two millions and five hundred thousands of dollars will ease his pain.

Freight rates will have to go up and free passes will have to be cut out or the roads will all go broke.—Cavert City Times.

W. L. HUGHES PASSES AWAY

After Many Months of Illness and Suffering A Well Known And Respected Citizen.

Wm. Leonard Hughes, one of the county's pioneer citizens, died at his home two miles northeast of Marion Thursday, Sept. 21st, of cirrhosis of the liver, of which he had suffered for several years.

He was in his 71st year having been born April 4th, 1846. His father moved here from Smith county, Tennessee, when he was a child.

He was married Dec. 27th, 1866 to Miss Luitia Hunt of this county who survives him with five children, all of whom are representative citizens. There are two sons, Wm. H., and John Wyatt Hughes; and three daughters, Mary Ellen, wife of J. H. Mayes, of this city; Martha Frances, wife of John M. Baker; and Lucy Jane, wife of Josie Hunt, the latter two of Pleasant Hill section. He is survived by one brother, Heziah Hughes, of Lilly Dale, and one half sister, Mrs. H. S. Wheeler, of this city.

The deceased was a member for nearly forty years of the Pleasant Hill Primitive Baptist church and always lived an upright christian life. He was a man of strict integrity and honorable in all of his dealings. His sons could not do better than to follow his example. His remains were laid to rest in Pleasant Hill cemetery on Friday at noon Sept. 22nd, 1916, Eld. John A. Hunt officiating. A large gathering of sorrowing friends and relatives were there to do honor to the memory of the dead man.

A Surprise.

Bro. E. M. Eaton was so busy and intent on filling his coal house on Monday, Sept. 25th, he did not realize that it was his birthday. But his wife prepared an excellent supper and invited his nearest neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gregory for a surprise, and to make the surprise complete, Mrs. Eaton had the guests seated at the table and then announced supper; when Bro. Eaton entered the dining room and saw the two dear old people whom he loves and esteems highly, his exclamations, adjectives and ejaculations were too numerous to mention. It was such an enjoyable surprise Bro. Eaton will not soon forget his 60th birthday.

WHEN THE WAR ENDS

Gov. Charles Hamlin, Of Federal Reserve Board, Talks of Conditions.

New York, Sept. 22.—American business men, aided by the Federal Reserve Bank system, will be able successfully to withstand the shock of European competition after the war, in the opinion of Charles Hamlin, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank. His views were expressed at the annual dinner of the Institute of Accountants last night. He said in part:

I estimate that the wealth of the United States has increased during the last two years by $40,000,000,000. Bank deposits have increased between $6,000,000,000 and $7,000,000,000, and the stock of gold has increased more than $700,000,000. Since the first of the year the importations of gold have amounted to $460,000,000.

No nation in the world has ever enjoyed the prosperity that this country now enjoys.

Mr. Hamlin said he felt that this time was one in which American business men ought to be conservative in order to prepare for the inevitable reaction.

Commending the Federal reserve system, he said that in the future no business man who deserves credit will fail to get it.

Never again will this country see a collapse of credit such as we have often seen in the past he declared. Never again will there be a currency famine such as we experienced in 1907. I am convinced, from a careful review of the situation, that the great prosperity of today is only a forerunner of the greater prosperity of the future.

Battleship Returns.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 29.—The battleship Michigan, damaged by an explosion of the muzzle of one of her 12-inch guns at target practice on the southern drill grounds, reached Hampton Road today and later sailed for Philadelphia to undergo repairs. Yeoman Robert Cooper, whose arm was fractured in the explosion, was brought to the naval hospital here. Eighteen feet of the gun's muzzle was blown away and it was reported the foremast and crew's gallery was damaged.

GERMANS CAPTURED MAIL STEAMER

Many Passengers Taken Off But Americans Not Disturbed.

London, Sept. 27.—The Dutch mail steamer Prinz Hendrik, which left Flushing this morning for London having on board a number of Russians, French, Belgians and British including some escaped war prisoners, was captured twenty miles out from Flushing by the Germans and taken to Zeebrugge, where approximately half of her sixty four passengers were taken off.

Several Americans were aboard the steamer, including Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American commission for Belgian relief but these were not molested in any way.

The steamer was later released and returned to Flushing.

Discontent In Crete Results In Conflict.

Athens, Sept. 27.—Reports received here from Crete say that the uprising, which had been simmering for several days in the neighborhood of Varnos resulted in a conflict outside of Herakleions which the insurgents entered. Several persons were killed or wounded and the Greek civil authorities were turned out. The British have disembarked a Squad of marines at Canea where a meeting of protest against the government policy was held this morning. The insurgents are said to surround the city.

Killed In Cattle Stampede.

Blackwell, Sept. 27.—J. E. Grinson, who owned a cattle ranch near Plains, southwest of this place, was caught in a stampede of cattle yesterday and literally cut to pieces by the hoofs of the animals. Grinson attempted to ride into the herd to stop the leaders, but his pony fell and both were caught in the rush.

Eliminate Rats By Destroying Their Harborage

Before the time comes to eradicating the rat, the crib should be made rat proof. These rodents destroy $25,000,000.00 worth of property annually. The numbers of house rats is constantly increasing and in the absence of any "Pied Piper of Hamelin" the most effective way to permanently combat them is to starve them out by eliminating their nests and haunts.

The rat is by nature exceedingly wary and difficult to destroy, and is very prolific. He not only causes losses by destruction but through the spreading of diseases.

Deny him harborage and the cost of ratproofing buildings will be but a tithe of what he destroys directly, not to mention the losses he causes indirectly.

To Much Salt May Kill Farm Animals.

The fact that a too large an excess of salt when fed to live stock may be poisonous may seem incredible but it is a fact. It is quite a common thing to see chickens die from an overdose of salt. Do not allow your cows and horses to become salt hungry, as they may eat an overdose when they finally get it. When they have not had access to it for some time it is safer to salt them sparingly at first.

Keep some salt where they may get it at will and they will not then overeat when salted.

A woman may not be able to drive a horse, or a snail, but when it comes to driving a bargain she gets there with both feet.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE MARY GRAHAM BONNER

OLD DRAPER DRAGON'S PARTY.

The Children were waiting for Daddy to begin his Story and were talking about Dragons while they waited. "That reminds me," said Daddy, "of the Dragons' Fancy Dress Party held two nights ago in the most beautiful Dragon home."

"Of course, as I've often told you before, Dragons aren't bad creatures at all. They have fine dispositions and are really, very jolly. Their looks are very fierce and dangerous, but they are as mild as milk can be."

"So they had lots of fun planning for their Fancy Dress Party, and it was to be given in the finest cave of all where lived Old Draper Dragon. No one knew quite why he had such a name, but it was the name he had always had and no one ever thought of calling him anything but Old Draper Dragon."

Mr. Moon's New Shape Was As Mild as Milk.

He had a very big cave for his home, and it was covered with hanging moss and ferns. On the very top of the cave he had his garden. There were several little bushes, one tree which he was extremely proud of, and some little wild flowers that came out very bravely—for it was high up in the air—on top of this cave.

"Many Lizards and Newts (they are Cousins of the Lizards) and Snails and Spiders lived in Old Draper Dragon's cave. He said that it really was just like a large hotel, but he liked having so many guests and he made them feel right at home. "And, when the Fancy Dress Party was to be given in his cave he invited all his little friends to come. Sure enough they accepted with glee. "The Party was given principally for the Brownies though, and they were all supposed to wear Fancy Dresses and Masks."

"They all came in a coach drawn by old Mr. Moon, for he was invited to the party too. You see the cave where Old Draper Dragon lived was at the top of the mountain where Mr. Moon was spending his evenings for a week or so. And when he heard the party was to be a Fancy Dress one he didn't seem to mind at all. The Dragons told him he needn't bother to come in Fancy Dress for it was an honor to have him any way. But he did arrive in Fancy Dress as he drew the coach for the Brownies."

"Instead of being round and fat and grinning, Mr. Moon was in the shape of a crescent—all beautifully shaped and curved. "I'm pretty fine, eh?" said Mr. Moon. "It was time I changed my shape—and what could have been a better time to choose than the night of the Dragons' Fancy Dress Party?" "The Dragons were delighted and the Brownies thought it was a very nice compliment for Mr. Moon to play the Dragons who get so much abuse anyway by being thought so cross and horrid."

"The Brownies wore costumes to make them look like Policemen, Firemen and Postmen. Those who were dressed like Policemen carried sticks made of the old roots of trees. Those who were supposed to be Firemen dragged behind them a hose and ladder just as if they were at a fire. Those who were dressed as Postmen carried large bags of mail on their backs. And they wore black masks."

"The Dragons were in costumes of Sailors which made them look very funny. And even the little Lizards and Spiders wore shawls and capes of moss over them to look a little different."

"But Mr. Moon's new shape was a mildred above everything else and he gave them plenty of light, as he stayed just outside the cave so they could all dance and play games."

"And later on when they had supper, Old Draper Dragon told all his guests Stories of the wild escapes he had had when a young Dragon, and how many, many, many times he had almost been killed and then—just saved by the smallest little chance. The more dangerous the Stories were the better the guests liked them, for so long as Old Draper Dragon was safe now, it only made him more interesting to hear of his past adventures."

Clam Was Drowned.

"Oh, mamma," said Little Bonnie, "I found a great big clam hull on the beach."

"And was there a clam in it?" asked her mother.

"No," replied Bonnie, "I don't he faded out and got drowned."

in Costume of Sailors.

W. L. HUGHES PASSES AWAY

After Many Months of Illness and Suffering. A Well Known And Respected Citizen.

Wm. Leonard Hughes, one of the county's pioneer citizens, died at his home two miles northeast of Marion Thursday, Sept. 21st, of cirrhosis of the liver, of which he had suffered for several years.

He was in his 71st year having been born April 4th, 1845. His father moved here from Smith county, Tennessee, when he was a child.

He was married Dec. 27th, 1866 to Miss Luitia Hunt of this county who survives him with five children, all of whom are representative citizens. There are two sons, Wm H., and John Wyatt Hughes; and three daughters, Mary Ellen, wife of J. H. Mayes, of this city; Martha Frances, wife of John M. Baker; and Lucy Jane, wife of Josie Hunt, the latter two of Pleasant Hill section. He is survived by one brother, Hezekiah Hughes, of Lilly Dale, and one half sister, Mrs. H. S. Wheeler, of this city.

The deceased was a member for nearly forty years of the Pleasant Hill Primitive Baptist church and always lived an upright christian life. He was a man of strict integrity and honorable in all of his dealings. His sons could not do better than to follow his example. His remains were laid to rest in Pleasant Hill cemetery on Friday at noon Sept. 22nd, 1916, Eld. John A. Hunt officiating. A large gathering of sorrowing friends and relatives were there to do honor to the memory of the dead man.

A Surprise.

Bro. E. M. Eaton was so busy and intent on filling his coal house on Monday, Sept. 25th, he did not realize that it was his birthday. But his wife prepared an excellent supper and invited his nearest neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gregory for a surprise, and to make the surprise complete, Mrs. Eaton had the guests seated at the table and then announced supper; when Bro. Eaton entered the dining room and saw the two dear old people whom he loves and esteems highly, his exclamations, adjectives and ejaculations were too numerous to mention. It was such an enjoyable surprise Bro. Eaton will not soon forget his 60th birthday.

WHEN THE WAR ENDS

Gov. Charles Hamlin, Of Federal Reserve Board, Talks of Conditions.

New York, Sept. 22.—American business men, aided by the Federal Reserve Bank system, will be able successfully to withstand the shock of European competition after the war, in the opinion of Charles Hamlin, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank. His views were expressed at the annual dinner of the Institute of Accountants last night. He said in part:

I estimate that the wealth of the United States has increased during the last two years by $40,000,000,000. Bank deposits have increased between $6,000,000,000 and $7,000,000,000, and the stock of gold has increased more than $700,000,000. Since the first of the year the importations of gold have amounted to $460,000,000.

No nation in the world has ever enjoyed the prosperity that this country now enjoys.

Mr. Hamlin said he felt that this time was one in which American business men ought to be conservative in order to prepare for the inevitable reaction.

Commending the Federal reserve system, he said that in the future no business man who deserves credit will fail to get it.

Never again will this country see a collapse of credit such as we have often seen in the past he declared. Never again will there be a currency famine such as we experienced in 1907. I am convinced, from a careful review of the situation, that the great prosperity of today is only a forerunner of the greater prosperity of the future.

Battleship Returns.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 29.—The battleship Michigan, damaged by an explosion of the muzzle of one of her 12-inch guns at target practice on the southern drill grounds, reached Hampton Road today and later sailed for Philadelphia to undergo repairs. Yeoman Robert Cooper, whose arm was fractured in the explosion, was brought to the naval hospital here. Eighteen feet of the gun's muzzle was blown away and it was reported the foremast and crew's gallery was damaged.

GERMANS CAPTURED MAIL STEAMER

Many Passengers Taken Off But Americans Not Disturbed.

London, Sept. 27.—The Dutch mail steamer Prinz Hendrik, which left Flushing this morning for London having on board a number of Russians, French, Belgians and British including some escaped war prisoners, was captured twenty miles out from Flushing by the Germans and taken to Zeebrugge, where approximately half of her sixty four passengers were taken off.

Several Americans were aboard the steamer, including Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American commission for Belgian relief but these were not molested in any way.

The steamer was later released and returned to Flushing.

Discontent In Crete

Results In Conflict.

Athens, Sept. 27.—Reports received here from Crete say that the uprising, which had been simmering for several days in the neighborhood of Vamou resulted in a conflict outside of Herakleions which the insurgents entered. Several persons were killed or wounded and the Greek civil authorities were turned out. The British have disembarked a Squad of marines at Canea where a meeting of protest against the government policy was held this morning. The insurgents are said to surround the city.

Killed In Cattle Stampede.

Blackwell, Sept. 27.—J. E. Grinson, who owned a cattle ranch near Plains, southwest of this place, was caught in a stampede of cattle yesterday and literally cut to pieces by the hoofs of the animals. Grinson attempted to ride into the herd to stop the leaders, but his pony fell and both were caught in the rush.

Eliminate Rats By Destroying Their Harborage

Before the time comes to cry corn, the crib should be made rat proof. These rodents destroy $25,000 000.00 worth of property annually. The numbers of house rats is constantly increasing and in the absence of any "Pied Piper of Hamelin" the most effective way to permanently combat them is to starve them out by eliminating their nests and haunts.

The rat is by nature exceedingly wary and difficult to destroy, and is very prolific. He not only causes losses by destruction but through the spreading of diseases.

Deny him harborage and the cost of ratproofing buildings will be but a tithe of what he destroys directly, not to mention the losses he causes indirectly.

To Much Salt May Kill Farm Animals.

The fact that a too large an excess of salt when fed to live stock may be poisonous may seem incredible but it is a fact. It is quite a common thing to see chickens die from an overdose of salt. Do not allow your cows and horses to become salt hungry, as they may eat an overdose when they finally get it. When they have not had access to it for some time it is safer to salt them sparingly at first.

Keep some salt where they may get it at will and they will not then overeat when salted.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

OLD DRAPER DRAGON'S PARTY.

The Children were waiting for Daddy to begin his Story and were talking about Dragons while they waited. "That reminds me," said Daddy, "of the Dragons' Fancy Dress Party held two nights ago in the most beautiful Dragon home."

"Of course, as I've often told you before, Dragons aren't bad creatures at all. They have fine dispositions and are really, very jolly. Their looks are very fierce and dangerous, but they are as mild as milk can be."

"So they had lots of fun planning for their Fancy Dress Party, and it was to be given in the finest cave of all where lived Old Draper Dragon. No one knew Mr. Moon's New Shape Was Admired."

It was the name he had always had and no one ever thought of calling him anything but Old Draper Dragon.

"He had a very big cave for his home, and it was covered with hanging moss and ferns. On the very top of the cave he had his garden. There were several little bushes, one tree which he was extremely proud of, and some little wild flowers that came out very bravely—for it was high up in the air—on top of this cave."

"Many Lizards and Newts (they are Cousins of the Lizards) and Snails and Spiders lived in Old Draper Dragon's cave. He said that it really was just like a large hotel, but he liked having so many guests and he made them feel right at home."

"And, when the Fancy Dress Party was to be given in his cave he invited all his little friends to come. Sure enough they accepted with glee."

"The Party was given principally for the Brownies though, and they were all supposed to wear Fancy Dress and Masks."

"They all came in a coach drawn by old Mr. Moon, for he was invited to the party too. You see the cave where Old Draper Dragon lived was at the top of the mountain where Mr. Moon was spending his evenings for a week or so. And when he heard the party was to be a Fancy Dress one he didn't seem to mind at all. The Brownies told him he needn't bother to come in Fancy Dress for it was an honor to have him any way. But he did arrive in Fancy Dress as he drew the coach for the Brownies."

"Instead of being round and fat and grinning, Mr. Moon was in the shape of a crescent—all beautifully shaped and curved."

"I'm pretty fine, eh?" said Mr. Moon. "It was time I changed my shape—and what could have been a better time to choose than the night of the Dragons' Fancy Dress Party?"

"The Dragons were delighted and the Brownies thought it was a very nice compliment for Mr. Moon to pay the Dragons who get so much abuse anyway by being thought so cross and horrid."

"The Brownies wore costumes to make them look like Policemen, Firemen and Postmen. Those who were dressed like Policemen carried sticks made of the old roots of trees. Those who were supposed to be Firemen dragged behind them a hose and ladder just as if they were at a fire. Those who were dressed as Postmen carried huge bags of mail on their backs. And they wore black masks."

"The Dragons were in costumes of Sailors which made them look very funny. And even the little Lizards and Spiders wore shawls and capes of moss over them to look a little different."

"But Mr. Moon's new shape was admired above everything else and he gave them plenty of light, as he stayed just outside the cave so they could all dance and play games."

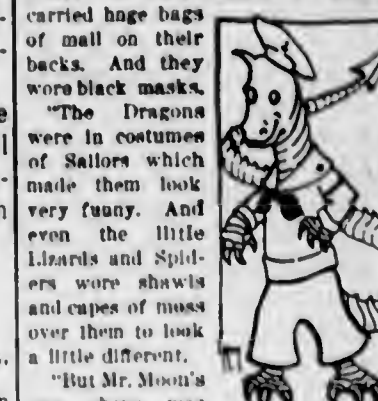

"And later on when they had supper, Old Draper Dragon told all his guests Stories of the wild escapes he had had when a young Dragon, and how many, many, many times he had almost been killed and then—just saved by the smallest little chance. The more dangerous the Stories were the better the guests liked them, for so long as Old Draper Dragon was safe now, it only made him more interesting to hear of his past adventures."

Clim Was Drowned.

"Oh, mamma," said Little Bonnie, "I found a great big clam ball on the beach."

"And was there a clam in it?" asked her mother.

"No," replied Bonnie; "I don't know but I got it out."

POULTRY

KEEP LITTLE CHICKS CLEAN

Cleanliness Must Be Observed Before Youngster Leaves Nest—Use Insect Powder.

Without absolute cleanliness and plenty of sunshine it is impossible to obtain perfect success in raising young chickens. Cleanliness must begin before the young chicken leaves its nest. In fact it should begin with the making of the nest and the placing of the eggs therein.

The nest boxes should be filled about two inches deep with loose earth or sod and new, clean straw should be used for the top filling. Before the hen is allowed to sit on the eggs she should be thoroughly dusted with powder, care being taken that the powder reaches every portion of the body, particularly under the legs and wings. This process should be repeated every ten days, the last dusting to be given just before the chicks are to come out.

As soon as the young chicks appear—before they are two days old—a tiny bit of vaseline should be rubbed with the finger on the head and under each wing. Care must be used not to smear them too much as it will work an injury to the tender chicks.

Young chickens should never be allowed to run in an old yard, that is, that has not been thoroughly renovated either by growing a crop of grass, oats or rye, or one that has been thoroughly spaded up, raked and rolled down. Of course very few chicken raisers go to this trouble but nevertheless if one is to have perfect success this is absolutely necessary.

If young chickens have been treated as described above and are given the run of a clean yard and the opportunity to get out into the garden and in the grass they will not be troubled with parasites or vermin. When young chicks once become infested with lice it is almost impossible to rid them of the pests. If the larger head lice are allowed to get a start on young chickens they will kill them in a very short time.

GOOD TREATMENT FOR COLDS

Equal Parts of Zenoleum and Kerosene Are Recommended—Give Epsom Salts in Mash.

Laborious breathing, wheezing, rattling in the throat, coughing and sneezing, are symptoms of colds in the flock. When birds showing these symptoms are discovered they should be removed from the flock and treated. Use equal parts of zenoleum and kerosene or equal parts of kerosene and sweet oil, anemizing the heads of the birds in the mixture or injecting small amounts of it into the nostrils and mouth. Epsom salts should be given in a moist mash also, while the birds are under treatment.

FATTEN FOWLS FOR MARKET

Shut Up Early Hatched Cockrels and Commence Feeding Them Some Fattening Ration.

Is the fattened cockerel that is the most on the market, and is earning an average of 10 cents per pound. So if you have some early hatched cockerels that you plan on marketing, get them shut up early and commence to feed a fattening ration of ground corn and buttermilk or sour milk.

MAXIMUM GROWTH OF GEES

Best Development of Fowls Secured by Feeding in Addition to What They Pick Up.

While it is true that under especially favorable conditions young geese will make fair growth if compelled to forage for their living, they will do much better and be more profitable at the end of the season if they are fed enough so that they can make their maximum growth and secure their best development.

ARMY OF CRICKETS

Invades Covington Hospital Drives Family Away From Home By Chirping.

Covington, Ky., Sept. 26.—Southeastern Covington is over run with crickets.

Several days ago city officials attempted to asphyxiate mosquitoes that infested a stagnant pond and weed patch back of St. Elizabeth Hospital. Crude oil was thrown upon the pond. The mosquitoes were routed all right, but the oil forced an army of crickets to leave their happy hunting grounds. These black warriors invaded homes in that vicinity. The creeping, hopping army also visited the hospital, doing damage. The pets entered closets, gnawed holes in clothing bed covering and tablecloths. Sisters in charge of the hospital have tried various disinfectants, but have failed to drive out the crickets.

Mat Ruef, of Twentieth street, declared that he and his family were forced to seek other quarters.

The singing of the crickets is unbearable, he said.

Grizzly Kills Sleeping Man In Yellowstone Park.

Cody, Wyo., Sept. 26.—Details of the killing of Jack Welch, a freighter, by a bear in Yellowstone park several days ago have been brought here by arrivals from the park. Welch and another man were sleeping beneath a wagon and a third man was asleep on top of the wagon when a grizzly bear seized Welch dragged him from beneath the wagon, and began to eat him alive.

Welch's screams awakened the other men, one of whom promptly fled. The second man, although without arms, in accordance with the park regulations, went to the rescue of Welch, distracting the bear's attention by throwing it chunks of bacon. The bear abandoned Welch for the bacon and while it devoured the meat Welch's companion dragged him away.

Shortly after the attack and while the bear still was engaged with the bacon a tourist arrived in an automobile. Welch was loaded into the machine and hurried to the Muse Tourist camp. He died later.

BABY SWALLOWS PILLS AND DIES

Little Fellow Swallows Dresser And Eats Medicine For Candy.

An unusual faculty for climbing cost the life of 2-year old William R. Schmitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Schmitt, of 1223 South Third street.

The boy's father had on top of a chiffonier a box of sugar coated pills, containing both strychnine and bella donna in small quantities, and Baby William climbed up to the top, and swallowed about 30 of the pills, evidently under the impression that they were good to eat.

When the boy's mother discovered the matter, she hurriedly called Dr. B. A. Washburn, who found the boy in convulsions when he arrived. Although every effort was made to save his life, he died shortly after.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the residence, with burial in Oak Grove cemetery.—Paducah Sun.

HUSBAND OBJECTS TO OPERATION

Wife Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa.—"Four years ago I was very sick and my life was nearly spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to any operation and got me some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. BLANCHETTE JEFFERSON, 708 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa.

WATER POWER CUTS COST OF LIVING

Census Figures Show Reduction In Electric Rates.

United States census figures show that one of the few commodities, if not the only one, which costs less now than a few years ago, is electric current. While the cost of living generally has been mounting skyward in the last ten or fifteen years, the price of electricity for light and power has been steadily going downward.

The census reports for 1912 show the average gross income of commercial and municipal central stations in cents per kilowatt-hour since 1902 to have been as follows:

	1912	1907	1902
United States	2.62	2.99	3.42
New England	3.37	2.94	4.32
Middle Atlantic	2.61	2.83	2.91
East North Central	2.67	3.34	3.63
West North Central	4.05	4.11	4.39
South Atlantic	2.43	2.88	3.46
East South Central	3.25	3.98	3.41
West South Central	6.34	5.35	4.65
Mountain	1.74	2.31	2.19
Pacific	1.71	1.96	2.44

These figures show the average price of electric power in 1912 in the entire United States to have been only two-thirds what it was ten years earlier. These reductions do not tell the entire benefit to the consumer, as they show only the price of current and offer no suggestion as to the economies brought about by improvement in electric lamps, motors and other appliances for utilizing electricity. In lighting alone the improvement in electric lamps in the last fifteen years has given the consumer from three to five times as much illumination with the same amount of current. That is, one cent's worth of electricity now produces five times as much light as it did fifteen years ago.

One of the most impressive facts shown by the above table of electric prices is the effect that water power development has had upon power costs. It will be seen that in the Middle Atlantic, West North Central and East South Central States, where there has been little water power development, the rates remained almost the same for ten years, while in the West South Central States, where there is no water power development worth mentioning, the cost of power actually increased. In New England and the South Atlantic States, where there has been considerable use of water power, the price dropped off one-third, while in the Mountain and Pacific states, where the greatest development of water power has taken place, the reduction was fully fifty per cent.

These figures tell the story very impressively of what may be expected in the way of benefit to the industries of the entire country when the 54,000,000 horse power of water now running to waste is harnessed and put to work.

BLUEBIRD

Sialia sialis

Length, about six and one-half inches.

Range: Breeds in the United States (west to Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana), southern Canada, Mexico, and Guatemala; winters in the southern half of the eastern United States and south to Guatemala.

Habits and economic status: The bluebird is one of the most familiar tenants of the farm and dooryard. Everywhere it is hailed as the harbinger of spring, and wherever it chooses to reside it is sure of a warm welcome. This bird, like the robin, phoebe, house wren, and some swallows, is very domestic in its habits. Its favorite nesting sites are crannies in the farm buildings or boxes made for its use or natural cavities in old apple trees. For rent the bird pays amply by destroying insects, and it takes no toll from the farm crop. The bluebird's diet consists of 65 per cent of insects to 32 per cent of vegetable matter. The largest items of insect food are grasshoppers first and beetles next, while caterpillars stand third. All of these are harmful except a few of the beetles. The vegetable food consists chiefly of fruit pulp, only an insignificant portion of which is of cultivated varieties. Among wild fruits elderberries are the favorite. From the above it will be seen that the bluebird does no essential harm, but on the contrary eats many harmful and annoying insects.

Ready to Preach the Gospel

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
 Director of the Practical Work Course,
 Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—So as much as in me is I am ready to preach the Gospel to you that are at Rome also.—Rom. 1:15.

The Greek term which the word ready translates, does not have in it so much the idea of preparedness as it does eagerness. It gives us a picture of the apostle standing as it were on tip-toe facing the imperial city, his countenance expressing the passion of his heart to preach the Gospel to the people of that city.

I can imagine as the apostle stands like a hound at leash, eager to be off, someone tugging at his cloak and saying, "Don't go to Rome, Paul, to preach the Gospel of the cross. They will laugh your story to scorn. Rome, remember, was the home of Cicero, and his orations are still studied there, and Seneca is discoursing in the streets. Go to them, Paul, with a little sociology, religious pathology and ethical culture, but not with the word of the cross." And Paul answers back: "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first and also to the Greek."

There are people today who tell us that the Gospel of the cross doesn't meet the modern mind. Well, I may know little of the modern mind, but I do know a great deal about the modern heart, and one thing is this, that it is still "deceitful above all things and desperately wicked," and, thank God, I know what can meet its needs and that is the cross of Christ. The trouble, friends, is not with our heads but with our hearts; let them be cleansed by the blood of Christ and the modern mind has no difficulty in understanding the story of the cross. Problems there may be, but the heart that knows the cleansing power of the blood clings in simple faith to the Cross of Christ.

Then there are those who say that the Cross of Christ does not meet the problem of today. What problems are there today that were not the problems of yesterday? What about the moral corruption of the times? Is it any worse than it was in Paul's day? When the apostle was eager to go to Rome, lecherous, reprobate Nero, who had sunk almost to the nethermost hell, was on the throne. Yet Paul was not desirous of going to Rome with a moral mud sew, but with the Gospel of Christ. He knew what some moderns do not know, that reformation follows regeneration, and so he was eager to preach in that corrupt city the Gospel of the cross. What a lesson to some would-be preachers of today who, not knowing the power of the Gospel to regenerate society, are trying with their puny scoops to cleanse the cesspools of iniquity, when they have at their command the dynamite of God. We might just as well try to batter down a fortress with a popgun and toy pistol as to attempt to overcome the forces of evil in the world by any moral reformation which leaves out the cross of Christ.

But what about a world immersed in pleasure? Will the Gospel reach such a world? As Paul stood facing Rome, mad with pleasure, he said, "I am ready to preach the Gospel to you that are at Rome also." And yet the city was almost altogether given over to pleasure. During the reign of Claudius, who preceded Nero on the throne, the gladiatorial games became almost an insane frenzy and in Nero's time, as we know, it was no better. Paul, however, was eager to go there with the Gospel. It is a great challenge that the pleasure-loving world gives the preachers of today. How shall they meet it? Shall they, in extremity, try something else besides the Gospel, or is the Gospel still the power of God unto salvation, even unto a pleasure-loving world? One of the saddest sights to behold is a ministry that has abandoned the Gospel and substituted in the place a sociological shovel and a pathological plaster. If hell ever laughs it laughs at such a substitution, for it knows that makeshifts will never meet the world's need and defeat hell.

Come on, preachers, the world challenges us, let us meet the challenge with Paul's "I am ready to preach the Gospel." What Gospel? Why, the Gospel of the cross, of course, for there is none other. And with Paul let us say, no matter what the world may say, we are not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ. Why not ashamed? "Because it is the dynamite of God." That means it has in itself the power to do business for God. No wonder Paul, facing intellect, and corrupt, pleasure-loving Rome, said, "I am ready, I am not ashamed to preach the Gospel to you that are at Rome also."

HIS OLD WOMAN'S WAYS.

BY FRANK L. STON.

The science-fellers can tell the ways
 Of the stars, through the land's eternal days,
 The time that it takes the world to run
 Clear 'round the belt of the blazin' sun;
 Jes' every way that a world may roam,
 An' track the comets, that have no home,
 An' most of the weather bureau men
 Can hit the weather one time in ten.
 But none can tell, in rain or shine,
 The ways of the Woman, the Lord made mine!

II.

Forty year—come Christmas Day—
 We've traveled together the selfsame way,
 An' the times that I 'lowed her mind I knowed,
 I was in the wilderness, 'thout a road!
 The minute I said to myself, "She'll see
 That Wisdom at last abides with me,
 An' I'm right for once, an' I'm 'gin' strong,"
 That was the time she writ me "Wrong!"
 An' I'd say, as off to myself I'd git,
 "Blest if I know that woman yet!"

III.

But, thinkin' over the thousand schemes
 I had for riches I seen in dreams;
 Many a project, many a plan
 Sure to make me a millionaire-man,
 I half-way think if it weren't that she
 Hadn't been travelin' 'long with me,
 Put on the brakes—made the train stand still
 When the wheels was rattlin' down the hill
 An' I thought for sure I was goin' some,
 I wouldn't be here to tell how come!

IV.

I dunno the wherefore or the why,
 But we travel on to the by an' by,
 An' I no more ask to understand
 As we go together, hand in hand,
 I only know, as the Night comes fast,
 That we'll love each other to the last,
 An' when we stand where the light don't fade,
 At the Gate where the close engagements made,
 With her I'll be hopin' some grace to win,
 For she'll give 'em a reason to let me in!

A Friend Of Man.

By O. M. West, Tennessee Department of Highways
 I am the road.
 Over my silent form
 The grinding wheels of traffic
 Carry their heavy burdens.
 I am the "Initial carrier."
 I am the Foundation
 Of all commerce.
 On me rests the first burden
 Of transportation.
 The wool and the cotton for your clothes
 Must first pass over my body.
 The food man's eats,
 The forage for your armies
 Must first be borne on my breast
 On me rest the first burden of man.
 I am Atlas.
 On my breast the barefoot boys and girls
 Dance on their way to school,
 On Sundays I carry the folk to church,
 The lovesick lad and lassie
 Make love in my breast but
 I am a "Daisy" and "never tell."
 The timber for the home
 Must first pass my way.
 I am the foundation
 On which the government is builded,
 On me rests the first cost of transportation
 I labor hard
 To perform my duty to you,
 Have you done your duty by me?
 Clathe me, I pray thee, against
 The ravages of the winter freeze,
 The damaging rains of spring,
 The choking dust of summer,
 Give me a new coat in the fall
 That I may give you a pleasant
 Profit and happiness
 The whole year 'round
 Treat me kindly, consider my
 Let not my body become
 Disfigured, worn, and maimed
 I give to you my all,
 Give me liberally of your goods and
 That I may give you even more
 You will never be more liberal than I
 For I Am A Friend Of Man.
